SCAVENGER HUNT!

Read the clues and identify these Dutchtown landmarks. Head to the location, snap a photo or video, and post it on Instagram/Twitter/TikTok with the hashtag #BoogieDownDutchtown and tag @DSCC

- Flounders can be found in the ocean, but in Missouri, these new flounders are for dwelling.
- Discover the art where Sequoyah's language meets the 3rd US President.
- Orange, pink, teal, and green, here you'll find an elephant with 3 eyes, like something out of a dream.
- In this months of tricks or treats, try your hand at this candy-themed dance: bit.ly/Boogie6
- Catch the #11 by this once bustling movie house, opened in 1914.
- Here you'll find a garden hideaway where neighbors have the "Liberty" to grow fruits & veggies.
- Dorothy may have had to click her heels 3 times to get back to Harlem, but this dance will get you back to Dutchtown in time for Movie Night! bit.ly/Boogie4
- Ease on down this path. While not yellow, it still bears St. Louis' signature stone and will take you to the entrance to the largest public place to cool off (in the summer) after running around on this scavenger hunt.
- My playground may be cement but my future is green. Do this class dance as part of an elementary routine. bit.ly/Boogie3
- Once a bank but now no more, this location is home to the #73 stop, innovation, movie nights, and after hours featuring your favorite stores.
